Harrie Leenders

Dutch manufacturer Harrie Leenders has produced a stunning new outdoor stove which is ideal for gardens, patios or roof terraces. This small all-rounder attracts immediate attention and becomes automatically the centre of a cosy atmosphere, hence its aptly named "Spot."

Spot ensures a warm welcome and also brings everyone together as you assemble around this compact stove. The wood supply is simply and conveniently integrated, meaning the firewood is always within easy reach.

Besides the cosy atmosphere, this outdoor stove also gives off a pleasant warmth so that even cool summer evenings assume an almost sultry character.

This magnificent outdoor stove is small-sized, smartly designed, made of solid painted steel, and has a safe construction. All this makes it the ideal environmentally-friendly alternative to the gas fired patio heater.

Harrie Leenders Spot

Harrie Leenders dealers will know that the sales and interest in this brand has been a huge success. In particular the Doran stove has been popular due to its natural form and rotating combustion chamber. This allows the fire to be turned exactly to where the warmth is required. In addition the stove is available in two different heights with either top or rear outlets providing many possibilities in terms of installation.

The WBox is the latest addition to our ever-growing range of storage solutions. Designed with attention to even the smallest details, taking aesthetics and easy assembly into consideration, they are produced with first class materials to offer top quality at all times.

The WBox series is a solid 'container' structure that solves the problems concerning the collection, transport, organisation and stacking of wood.

Thanks to its open sides, the wood can breathe, remaining dry and ready for use. With the wheeled models it is possible to transport a load easily and safely from a remote place into the home, i.e garage, wood store, etc.

Wbox also allows a particularly pleasing effect to be obtained, in which the wood becomes the protagonist, offering compactness and at the same time, maximum storage capacity.

These units can be situated to blend easily into different room settings/areas, from ultra modern to classic, according to different needs and spaces available. Wbox is ideal both for indoor and undercover outdoor use and is available in a range of different sizes with various storage capabilities.
